Old Church — New Life

18th June 2017

LASTING SECURITY

The media present us with so many things that will make us more comfortable or enhance our quality of life. Often the dazzling array of promises include those things that will enhance or secure our security and safety in the face of unexpected disaster or trouble. The question of security is one that we all wrestle with, whether physical, financial or psychological.

Jesus challenges his disciples as to the ultimate foundation for our spiritual security. In the toughest of times, in the darkest of nights and when we come near the end, to whom or what will we look? People look to reputation, to things, to family, to power or to wealth in order to secure such security but ultimately in the light of God such things will only prove temporary. We're killing ourselves with anxiety and fear when instead Jesus calls us to live with hope grounded in faith. Once again the providential love of God our Father comes to the fore. He cares for all that he has made, whether on land or in the sea or in the air and he cares for us with a love that will last into eternity.
